COMPARATIVELY FEW OFFICE SEEK-ERS AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

The Frentdent Opens a Fresh Box of Cigars at the Cabinet Meeting and Enjoys Life-The Effort to Have the Forest Reserves Order Vacated-Philosophical Manning Legan. WASHINGTON, March 30.-Comparatively few persons went to the White House to-day. The Cabinet met soon after 11 o'clock and only a brief session was held. Senator Sherman, who is confined to his home by an attack of rheu-matism, was the only Cabinet official absent. The President opened a fresh box of cigars, and the members of the Cabinet who use the weed partook of them freely. After adjournment Secretary Bliss and Attorney-General Mo-Kenna remained with the President several minutes, but nothing important was discussed. Secretary Bliss, who has been directed to investigate the recent order of President Cleveland. extending the forest reserves, said no decision had been reached. Much influence has been brought to bear to have Mr. Cleveland's order vacated, and some steps probably will be taken this week. Last week a delegation of Western Senators visited the President and pleaded with him to annul the forest reservation order, and he ised to give the matter early attention.

"Cy" Leland, the Republican Warwick of Kansas; Leo E. Bennett, and P. L. Sayer of Indian Territory were afternoon callers. Mr. Le-land is anxious to have several Kansas constituents taken care of and has so informed the President. Mr. Leland's recommendations have not been heeded lately. The appointment of Thomas Ryan of Kansas to be Assistant Secretary of the Interior was made in direct opposition to Mr. Leland's will. The appointment is so unsatisactory to Mr. Leland that he has already manifested his displeasure. However, Mr. Leland has other irons in the fire, and he does not propose to sulk in his tent as long as there are sev-eral nice plums still dangling from the limbs of the patronage tree. Mr. Leland and his Indian Territory friends were with the President sevrerritory friends were with the Fresident several minutes.

Gen. Draper of Massachusetts, who, it is believed, will be appointed Ambassador to Italy, drove up to the White House this morning in his handsome carriage, and was with the President a few minutes. Gen. Draper seemed very happy as he descended the White House stairs just after his conference with the President, and from his demeanor it was apparent that he had received words of encouragement. It is believed that Gen. Draper's name will be sent to the Senate this week with that of Prof. Andrew D. White of New York, slated for Ambassador to Germany.

White of New York, stated for Ambassador to Germany.

A. H. Steele of New York, a member of the Committee on Arrangements for the Grant celebration on April 27, was at the White House over an hour to-day. For several minutes he talked with Secretary Bliss and Private Secretary Porter and finally saw the President. It has been decided that the President and his Cabinet will attend the celebration on April 27. Mr. Steele will invite other men high in official life to be present.

Ex-Senator H. W. Corbett of Oregon came late in the afternoon and recommended H. B. Miller of Corvallis, Or., for Consul at Munich, Germany. Dr. Seward Webb and Mrs. Webb drove up in Cornelius Vanderbilt's carriage and were shown through the private part of the mansion. Senator Martin of Virginia, a Democrat who succeeded Eppa Hunton, came in to pay his respects, but did not see the President on account of the crowd outside. Ex-Representative Tracey filed papers with the President. Representative Warner of Illinois came with a constituent who is a candidate for a Consulship. Representative McEwan of New Jersey was an early visitor; he wanted to introduce a constituent to the President. Manning Logan, who wanted to go to Austria, stepped in a moment, but did not see the President. Mr. Logan does not seem at all disappointed over his failure to secure a place in the diplomatic service. When saked what he would ask for next, Mr. Logan said:

"Nothing that I know of now. I'm perfective

"There are just as big fish in the sea as ever were caught."
Mr. Logan had no comment to make on this. Representatives Yost and Walker of Virginia were with the President several minutes. Ex-Delegate Dennis Flynn of Oklahoma, who would like to be Governor of Indian Territory, came in his own interest. Mr. Flynn is strongly indorsed for the place, but in view of the fact that he was not an "original McKinley man," his chances for securing the Governorship are not thought to be the best.

Vashingron, March 30.-Minister Denby, at Pekin, informs the State Department that the West River has been finally opened to foreign commerce. This great river, on which Canton is uated, with Hong Kong at its mouth, is the highway of southwestern China and the largest goods distributor of this rich district, giving as t does access to the three large provinces of Kwang-si, Yunnan, and Kwei-chow, with a population of about 25,000,000. OUR FOREIGN RELATIONS.

Contents of the Annual Volume of Diplomatic WASHINGTON, March 30.-The second volume on foreign relations, giving the diplomatic correspondence of the State Department for the last year, which is now almost ready for publication, devotes 1,000 pages to the exceptionally interesting international matters which characterized the close of the last Administration, chief smong them being the negotiations with Great Britain and Spain. The fourteen pages devoted to Austria-Hungary relate to the successful efforts of Ambassador Tripp to secure the exemption from military service of naturalized Americans, with the result. In the fifty-three pages given to China the method pursued by Minister growing out of riots against missionaries is fully set forth.

The arbitration and the award in the Santez claim against Ecuador are treated at length. A large portion of the thirty-three pages allotted to France shows the interest manifested by the United States in securing full protection of American rights in Madagascar at the time of the transfer of that island to the Franch flag. In Germany's seventy-nine pages a number of important questions are treated, notably that relating to the tonnage-dues controversy, which led to an exceedingly spicy correspondence. The exclusion of American life insurance companies from Germany also is dealt with. An extensive interchange of letters was required to establish the fact that Germany could not undertake to carry home insane German sallors deserting in United States ports. In the course of several instructions to Mr. Uhi, Secretary Olney ruled in effect that a naturalized American citizen who returned to Bavaria and established a permanent domicile as a retired gentleman had abandoned his American citizenship, and his children had forfeited any right to United States protection; that the voluntary surrender of passports expatriated such a person; that the passports expatriated such a person; that the passports of an American who had resumed his German allegiance could be demanded, and that the Hancroft treaties were applicable to Alsace and Lorraine.

M'KINLEY GETS A REST. OPENING FOR A NEW INDUSTRY. tingency of the Pending Tariff.

> One of the results of the new Dingley tariff, if the bill is passed, will probably be the building up in this country of the linen manufacturing industry, a branch of trade that has been neglected in the past. The Dry Goods Chronicle, in its last issue, called attention to this fact and gave some interesting information concern ing it. If crash and certain coarse products be left out, it may be fairly said that no linen has been manufactured in this country in quanti-ties that had the least effect upon the market. Two attempts have been made to operate linen mills, one in Providence and another in Minneapolis, the latter city being the centre of the flax-growing section of Minnesota. Both of these ventures proved unsuccessful, and practically marked the beginning and end of the manufacture of fine linens in the United States,

The failure of these ventures is easily ex-plained. Climatic conditions preclude the making of fine flax yarn in this country, and all making of nne nax yarn in this country, and an except the commonest grades must be imported. Heretofore the difference in duties between imported yarns and the imported finished product has been insufficient to warrant the manufacture of damask and dress goods. The condition of the cotton goods trade is chiefly responsible for the turning of the attention of manufacturers to linens. Within the last few years the increase in the number of Southern mills has been having a decided effect upon the New England mills, especially those which turn out the coarser grades of cloths, for in the finer grades the New England mills, especially those which turn out the coarser grades of cloths, for in the finer grades the New England mills, having better machinery, can hold their own with those of the South, despite the fact that they are further removed from the base of supplies. The New England mills, in view of the increasing competition of the South, have therefore been looking around for something to take, in a measure, the place of cotton, and have been studying the linen question. As a result of this, an agent for one of the mills said yesterday:

"Given an adequate differential tariff between yarns and cloth, American manufacturers who now make cotton goods can in a short time make as fine linens as are imported from the other side.

Armed with facts and figures these manuexcept the commonest grades must be imported.

now make cotton goods can in a short time make as fine linens as are imported from the other side."

Armed with facts and figures these manufacturers went before the Ways and Means Committee and asked for a differential tariff of 20 per cent., which would be sufficient to enable our munufacturers to compete with their foreign rivals, and would build up in a short time a most profitable industry. The process would be an easy one, for the method or making linen cloth is practically the same as for cotton goods, the difference being in the ultimate handling or finishing. The committee assented to the demands of the producers, but in some way the difference was made out at 15 per cent. instead of 20, which is inadequate, but the mistake will be remedied before the bill is finally passed. The tariff wanted is 35 per cent. on yarns and 55 per cent. on cloth.

With the rise of a linen manufacturing industry would come another industry, that of spinning weaving yarns. There being no market for them in this country now, none are made, but with the creation of a market the spinners would quickly take up the work to supply it. For this reason the spinners are working in harmony with the weavers to get the proposed protection. They say that with flax on the free list they can sell yarns as cheaply as the foreign producer, who has to pay 30 per cent. duy.

The Dry Goods Chronicle gives the following list of concerns and the number of men employed by them who are now engaged to a small extent in the manufacture of linens:

TARIFF DEBATE FLOWS ON.

Books for School Libraries on the Free List

WASHINGTON, March 30 .- Weariness of the fiesh was manifested to-day in the proceedings of the House in Committee of the Whole upon consideration of the Tariff bill, when members sought to relieve themselves of the tediousness of prosy debate by vehemently applauding the of prosy debate by vehemently applauding the speakers.

Mr. Wheeler's request for an evening seasion was objected to vigorously. Republican opposition to the bill was again shown by a discussion of the question of putting a duty on hides. Mr. Cannon (Rep., Ill.) said he would like to see one imposed, but would vote for the bill as the Committee on Ways and Means approved it.

Mr. Hepburn (Rep., Ia.) was more outspoken. He said the value of the hides produced in the United States far exceeded that of wool, which dwindled into insignificance beside it. He appealed to the Committee on Ways and Means to test the sense of the House on the proposition. But Mr. Dingley refused to pursue that course, stating instead the reasons wby the committee did not recommend a duty.

The day was nearly all occupied in disposing of amendments offered by the Committee on Ways and Means, most of which went to perfecting the phraseology or making classification clearer. An amendment putting books, maps, and charts, imported for the use of schools, colleges, and public libraries on the free list was agreed to; also one restoring the McKinley rate on horses and mules.

At 4 o'clock the reading of the bill from the point where the committee stopped on Saturday was resumed, and in the last hour of the day

At 4 o'clock the reading of the bill from the point where the committee stopped on Saturday was resumed, and in the last hour of the day four additional pages were passed over, making twenty in all.

Mr. Hopkins (Rep., Ill.), a member of the Committee on Ways and Means, assured Mr. McMillin (Dem., Tenn.) that if his associates would not delay unnecessarily consideration of the bill the sugar schedule would be reached in time to be acted upon.

After the committee rose an unavailing effort was made to reach an agreement to extend the acted upon.

After the committee rose an unavailing effort was made to reach an agreement to extend the limit for debate from 3 to 4 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, the last two hours to be under the rules for general debate.

At 5:10 a motion to adjourn was agreed to, and the effort to reach the agreement will probably be renewed to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

The open session of the Senate lasted until 2 P. M. and then the Senate resumed, behind closed doors, the consideration of the arbitration treaty. Spending two and a half hours in the discussion to the 1,464 bills that had been introduced up to the 1,600, the wast majority of them being pension bills.

The Populist Senator from Nebraska, Mr. Allen, occupied more than an hour with an elaborate argument to prove that Congress is "not possessed of the constitutional power to impose tariff duties on articles of daily consumption for the express and avowed purpose of increasing the private fortunes of one class of citizens at the expense of the masses." He characterized as preposterous the claim that a high tariff raised the price of farm products, and was of vast benefit to the farmers. The resolution embodying the doctrine which he had offered yesterday was, at the close of his speech, referred to the Committee on Finance. Another menace to the measure now pending in the House was contained in a resolution of the Senato and Senator Senators and Senators and Senators and S tained.

The House amendments to the joint resolution passed yesterday by the Senate appropriating $250,000 to aid in protecting life and property in the Mississippi floods were concurred in by the Senate, and the joint resolution was sent to the President.

APPROVAL OF THE DINGLEY BILL New Orleans Exchanges Favor the Measure Hecause of the Sugar Schedule.

NEW ORLEANS, March 30 .- It is probable that all the New Orleans commercial exchanges will approve the Dingley bill or at least the sugar section of it, and keep mute on the other sec section of it, and keep mute on the other sec-tions. This is being done at the solicitation of the sugar planters, who are well pleased with the sugar duty, and who oppose any criticism of the bill as likely to endanger it. The New Or-leans Cotton Exchange leads off with the follow-icans Cotton Exchange leads off with the following indorsement:

"Whercas, The measure now pending before Congress, known as the Dingley bill, contains provisions in favor of sugar which will prove materially beneficial to that important industry in our State, while affording much needed increase in the nation's revenue.

"Resolved, That we urge our Senators and Representatives, while using their own judgment relative to such amendments to the Dingley bill as they may deem best for the country at large, to exert their utmost efforts to secure retention of the clauses relating to sugar."

As an over whelming majority of the members of the Cotton Exchange have been free traders, the indorsement of the sugar section and quasi indorsement of the bill itself is a surprise.

AT SEA IN THE SENATE.

REPUBLICANS IN A MUDDLE WITH REORGANIZATION PROBLEMS.

ome Want to Appeal to the Populists for Amistance—A Caucus Appoints a Commit-tee on Committees to Wrestle with the Puzzle That Is Presented by the Bendlock. WASHINGTON, March 30.-The deadlock in the Senate over the attempt of the Republicans to take control of the committees and the organi-sation shows no sign of breaking. The Democrats, under the lead of Mr. Gorman, have got the Republicans "just where they want them," and they intend to keep them there if possible. Republicans have not enough votes to carry through a partisan resolution if the Populists should vote with the Democrats, and therefore they are unable to take any decided step.

Some of the more radical Republicans are in favor of accepting such aid as they can get from Populist Senators like Mr. Kyle, who was elected by Republican votes, but the more autious of the leaders are inclined to stand out until, by the filling of vacancies or otherwise, hey succeed in getting a clear straight-out Republican majority.

This morning the Republican Senators put their heads together in caucus to see if some plan could not be devised by which the committee vacancies could be filled and the Republicans thus put in control of legislation. The subject was talked over in all its phases, but no conclu sion was reached. The upshot of the discussion Senator Allison, the Chairman of the caucus, to appoint "a committee on committees," or, in other words, a committee to count noses, consult with the Democratic leaders, and map out some plan by which the political deadlock could be broken.

One result of the confused state of affairs growing out of the fact that no party in the enate has a clear majority, has been to tie up nominations and other business of committees which, it is said, have no legal existence be cause of the expiration of the terms of many Senators included in their membership. One of the committees so affected is that of Post Offices and Post Roads, which legally is composed of ten members, but only five of this number are now Senatora. Four of them are Republicans, and one, Butler of North Carolina, a Populians, and one, Butler of North Carolina, a Populians, and one, Butler of North Carolina, a Populian, and the senator of the illegality of which there can be no doubt, but the facts as to its status have been fully discussed in executive session, and the consensus of legal opinion of the lawyers is that the committee does exist, and that the authority for it is found in the resolution adopted by the Senate on March 4. This resolution, as originally introduced by Senator Allison, read as follows:

"Resolved, That the standing and select committees of the Senate, as now constituted, be, and they are hereby, continued until the first Monday in December, 1897, or until their successors are elected."

At the suggestion of many Senators, Mr. Allison amended this resolution by striking out the words "the first Monday in December, 1897, or until," and it was so adopted. By unanimous consent it was agreed in executive session to-day that all of the business pending before the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads should be received by the Senate, but that this action should not be construed as a decision on the question whether the committee is legally in existence.

It was agreed further, by unanimous consent Offices and Post Roads, which legally is comon the question whether the committee is legally in existence.

It was agreed further, by unanimous consent from both sides of the chamber, that such nominations as had been reported favorably, and which it is important should be acted upon promptly, should be confirmed, and this step will be taken in executive session to-morrow. This consent covers the nominations of Mr. Bristow, the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, and others which it is very desirable should be decided at once in order to complete the organization of the executive departments. The nominations of Postmasters to which there is objection, for political and other reasons, will remain upon the calendar to be disposed of after it shall be decided definitely whether the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads and other committees similarly situated are now legally constituted, and whether the Republicans will be able to rely upon enough votes to assume control of the committees and the organization.

FIFTEEN MILLIONS IN DUTIES taken in at This Port in March-A Large Part of Them Paid on Tobacco.

Customs receipts at this port yesterday aggregated $1,018,917, of which $345,553 was on withdrawal entries and the rest on fresh imwere made at the Sub-Treasury preparatory to payments of duties at this port and $130,000 for payments of duties at this port and $130,000 for duties at Key West. The customs receipts at this port from March 1 to March 30 inclusive have been $15,853,180.

A large proportion of the payments have been on tobacco, on which a higher duty is provided in the Dingley bill. Up to March 18 the withdrawals from the warehouses of tobacco during the month were 15,000 bales, but since the date mentioned they have increased so as to make the total to date 52,439 bales.

CRIDLER TO SUCCEED BALDWIN. Chief of the Diplomatic Bureau to He Third Assistant Secretary of State.

Baldwin of New York city, to succeed W. W. Baldwin of New York city, and will send it to the Benate in a few days. Mr. Cridler has been for twenty-two years an official of the department, and for the last thirteen years has served as chief of the Diplomatic Bureau, He played an important part with Secretary Oiney in drawing up the Venezuelan correspondence, and in perfecting the recent arbitration treaty, and probably knows more about the workings of the State Department than any other Government official with the possible exception of Second Assistant Adec.

The attack is expected to be temporary, and with careful nursing and attention the doctor believes Mrs. Platt will be able to be around again soon.

H. B. Platt, one of the three sons of Senator Platt, is in town. The other two sons have been in communication with Washington to-day, but as Mrs. Platt is recovering they probably will not come to Washington. Dr. McGruder was with his patient early this evening, but retired early as her condition was improving steadily.

EUO'S OCELOT KRITEN. A Pretty and Victors Little Cat from Mexico to the Monkey House The latest addition to the Central Park Zoo is an occlot, sometimes called tiger cat, a rare animal in captivity, found in the wooded parts of tropical America. This one, a little fellow, not quite three months old, came from Minatitlan, or La Fabrica, a small town in the extreme south of Mexico, where it was found by a hunter named Vicente Gutierrez, who gave it to Mr. Herman Kluge of 715 Lexington avenue New York. Mr. Kluge, who was travelling in Mexico at the time, cared for the animal, feeding it with bread and milk up to the time of his arrival in New York one week ago to-day. He kept it in an upper room at his place of business, 25 Park place, but the occlot soon began to show signs of viciousness, anapping and growling at every one, except Mr. Kluge, with whom it seemed to be friendly. Mr. Kluge decided that it would be wise to dispose of the animal, so on Sunday he presented it to the Zoo, where it is being cared for in the house with the monkeys.

Since the animal was given to Mr. Kluge, on Feb. 18, it has grown to be about the size of a house cat, but if it lives it will grow much larger. It is gray, spotted with fawn-colored patches. Some of the spots are rimmed with black.

The Vencedor's owners have offered to put up a cash guarantee of $1,000 that she can defeat the Niagara. The two boats are of the same style and class.

The only reason that Commodore Berriman and other owners of the Vencedor consents to part with the yacht is that the Canadians who own the yacht Canada, which defeated the Vencedor on a fluke last summer, will not sail another race.

The Vencedor's owner, however, intends to build a new boat and challenge the crack Canadian yacht for an international contest. Pockel, who designed the Vencedor, was the head draughtsman for Herresboff when the latter built the Niagara. Pockel says that the Vencedor is much the faster boat.

this afternoon was, as it has been for several days, on the Chilton amendment, which prevides that every question proposed to be submitted to arbitration under this treaty shall first be submitted to the Senate for its approval or disapproval, inst as an original treaty is submitted. It looks very much as if this amendment would prevail.

Mr. Chilton addressed the Senate this afternoon on his amendment. Mr. Platt of Connecticut taked Mr. Chilton why his proposed amendment was better than that proposed amendment was better than that proposed that it was better because it made the intent of the Senate clearer and left the subject without any doubt in the minds of the American people.

Senator Morgan made another speech on the treaty as a whole, and asserted that it made no difference to him how the treaty was amended, he would be opposed to it. The time had not yet come, he said, when the United States should bind themselves by a general treaty with Great Britain. No good could come of it, and he said he hoped that every man who favored the interests of the United States would vote against its ratification. bluffs overlooking the Raritan River, one mile east of the city. They are splendidly adapted for golf, as much of them has not been ploughed up for nineteen years. A large flock of sheep grass over the land, thus providing for the disposal of grass. There are soveral natural hasards and bunkers.

There has been dissatisfaction for some time over the links on Livingston avenue, just on the outskirts of this city. The grounds are too public and the club house too small. It is expected that the new course will be ready for play about May 1, when the opening will be colebrated by some sort of fete at the new club house. Ross Hall is a neat old mansion, built in colonial style, and it is proposed to turn it into a country club eventually. C. A. Kenny, the originator and moving spirit in the New Brunswick Golf Club, was chiefly instrumental in securing the Metlar place, and he signed the lease to-day as President of the club. interests of the United States would vote against ite ratification.

Mr. Hoar of Massachusetts concluded a long speech on the general subject by offering an amendment intended to take the place of the amendments now pending. It included the salient points of the amendments proposed by Mr. Chilton and by the committee which had been informally agreed to. It is patterned after the Lodge amendment of the last session and it eliminates from the scope of the treaty all questions relating to the national or domestic policy of either of the contracting parties and provides that the Senate shall pass, as a part of the treaty-making power, upon all questions proposed to be submitted to arbitration under the general terms of the treaty, Mr. Hoar addressed the Senate at some length upon his amendment.

NEW HAVEN, March 30,-The successful candi dates for the 'varsity baseball and the freshman crew training tables were announced to-night. Nineteen men were taken to the baseball table, which will be formed to-morrow morning permanently for the season. The list is as follows: De Forest, Gare, F. Hecker, Sullivan, Hall, Fearey, Greenway, Letton, Hamlin, Reed, Fincke, Campa, Hazen, Bartlett, Wear, Atkin, Chauncey, Keator and Wallace. Of these, Sullivan and Camp are the only freshmen. The fortunate freshman crew candidates are: J. P. Brock, R. M. Patterson, J. C. Greenway, Simons, Wiedecker, Allen, Cross, Flint, and Megee. Cross is temporary captain. It passed both branches, was signed by the Lieutenant-Governor on the last night of the session, and was handed to the Secretary for delivery to the Speaker of the House, which, it is alleged, he failed to do. A search was made for it that night, but it could not be found.

The next day Bloor, when called upon for an explanation, went to the House Clerk's desk and presumably found the bill therein, but the Grand Jury thinks he placed it there while making the alleged search. Both were held to making the alleged search. Both were held to opens at the Boston A. A. on Monday, took opens at the Boston A. A. on Monday, took
